What would you like to share with Metro about the Pioneer Recycling Clackamas solid waste facility license application? *

I see TONS of recyclable materials/items that go in the pit every day. Truckloads of palletted 5 gallon buckets of expired food ingredients. Lie to the metro folks and throw building materials, hazardous materials, all kinds of stuff that has plenty of life left or can be transformed into something useful and even beautiful. I mean LOTS of stuff. With no oversight or enforcement, in fact, the folks working the pit avoid interacting with people!

The efforts of the general public are therefore minimized and the contracted processor is operating a facility at a fraction of its necessary capacity to make metro's recycling more than a public relations tool.
